“Experience is what you get when you didn't get what you wanted.”

Randy Pausch

- If you use .Net think about MVC vs WebForms
 - MVC: Best Performance – High learning curve
 - Web Forms: Low learning curve

- Think big and execute small projects (quick wins vs big-bangs).
 - Go on cloud systems as soon possible.
 - If cant do that or is too difficult:
 - Plan B – Use mixes systems (On Line – Solf Local Versions)
 - Plan C – Bulk all operation to Async Process (High Cost)

- The good things take time! (no much)
 - Define clearly the process, then execute.
 - If you test your applications, don't worry the stakeholders will find more bugs than you.
- Create quick MVP (Minimum Viable Product)
- In House is better than Outsourcing...
 - Team skills.
 - Team experience.
