The water security and migration nexus spans the short term to the long term, and presents humanitarian and development challenges at the socio-economic, political and environmental levels. In order to better understand the complex interlinkages between water and migration and address this issue from a youth perspective, the Center for Mediterranean Integration (CMI) is organizing the third edition of its flagship regional youth workshop on the United Nations World Water Day 2019 theme: “Leaving No One Behind: Water for All”, with a specific focus on Water and Migration. The workshop is preceded by the third edition of the Mediterranean Water Heroes Contest and first CMI Call for Working Papers on water and migration, which will focus on:

- Water Governance and Forced Displacement
- Climate Change and Forced Displacement/Voluntary Migration
- The Water-Employment-Migration (WEM) Nexus
- Water and Green Entrepreneurship for Mediterranean Migrant Youth

Objectives:

The 2019 World Water Day youth workshop aims to stimulate inter-generational learning between young Mediterranean water practitioners and senior experts, notably through the CMI Call for Papers on Water and Migration, while further involving and supporting the CMI-managed Mediterranean Youth for Water network (MedYWat) while stimulating and enhancing collaboration with key regional players on the water and migration theme.

Target audience:

The main target audience of this workshop is young Mediterranean water professionals. In line with the CMI Water Program’s wider aims and the 2019 World Water Day theme, it also targets refugees and migrants, youth and women. The workshop will welcome up to 60 young participants, MedYWat coordinators and experts.
